What are the policies and guidelines for student organizations?

All student organizations are held to the same standards. As a leader or member of a student organization, being aware of privileges and responsibilities your organization has to each other and the UMBC community is important. At UMBC, we encourage a community that is diverse, respectful, positive, and mutually supportive. We also strive to provide pertinent knowledge and resources for your organization to thrive and be successful. Please review the documents below and participate in the communal response to create such an environment for all members of the UMBC community.
